The trends in WPI from 23rd December, 2006 shows that the prices have increased for Onion, Tapioca, Brinjal and Okra (Bhindi) upto 3rd February, 2007. Thereafter, the prices of these commodities are either decreasing or stable.

(b) The reason for recent rise in prices of the above vegetables is the low market arrivals as compared to demand.

(c) Some of the measures taken to contain the price rise of onions include procurement and distribution of onion as well as monitoring of exports by National Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Federation of India Ltd. (NAFED). NAFED has also raised the Minimum Export price (MEP) from $ 220 per MT prevailing on 19-12-2006 to $ 345 per MT with effect from 19-02-2007 in order to improve domestic availability. Prices of onions and other vegetables along with market arrivals are also being monitored regularly. Prime Minister also wrote to all State Governments to take measures to contain the price rise.
